for Coughs and Colds

If Peruna were used at the beginning of every cold, coughs would generally be prevented. After the cough begins Peruna will generally stop it just as quickly as it ought to be stopped. To stop a cough before all of the expectoration has been removed is to do great injury. After the expectoration has been properly removed the cough will stop Itself. That is the only proper way to stop a cough.

Occasionally a cough depends upon an irritable condition of the larynx or bronchial tubes, in which there is little or no expectoration.

The problem of stopping such a cough is a slightly different Even in those cases Peruna ought to be taken, but sometimes it is necessary that local treatment be added.

Every one who has a troublesome cough or a lingering cold should write the Peruna Company, Ohio, for a free copy of the "Ills of There is no free pamphlet dis-Life." to the sick and afflicted than the new "Ills of Life." It is filled from cover to cover with actual cases of cough, colds and other climatic diseases in all stages and complications. You could scarcely fail to find your case exactly described in this book.

To neglect to do everything possible to get rid of a stubborn cold or chronic cough is very unwise indeed. Peruna has enjoyed a great reputation as a remedy in such cases for thirty or forty years. As a rule, a person who uses one bottle of it is always afterwards an enthusiastic advocate of Peruna. Peruna itself is a means of selling more Peruna than all advertisements put together.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tableta.

AGRICULTURAL LAND FOR SALE! Improved and Unimproved

In placing my holdings on the market, consisting of lands around Charlotte and Jourdanton, both improved and unimproved, I do so with the knowledge that these lands are most favorably situated and offer every convenience to those seeking homes. Within easy reach of every point are modern gins, well equipped schools, commodious churches, good roads lead everywhere, to nearby railroad stations and the best markets in Texas.

This property has not been offered earlier because these very necessary advantages were not to be had, but now they are a reality---nothing is left to speculation or future contingencies. Settlers now have all the advantages that can be found anywhere in a fully developed community without paying the prices that are asked in the older sections. You can have the benefit, for I am offering you the most desirable opportunity in Texas.

These lands are as good as can be had in South Texas; there are no better anywhere. Plenty of water can be obtained on any tract and shallow wells can be located at small cost furnishing an abundance of good water. The soil is fertile, there are no crop failures on these farms and no irrigation is necessary. No section of the state offers a more healthy or delightful climate, winter or summer.

Following some warm weather, it began raining Sunday afternoon about five o'clock. Emil Martin, while hunting in the hills north of Hondo last Sunday, bagged a ten prong buck. The Uvalde Baptist Association sent the Buckner's Orplans Home 125 chickens for the orphan's Thanksgiving dinner. Of this number the Hondo Church sent thirty and would have added twenty more if the roads had not been too bad for the people to bring them in from the farms. No doubt the little orphans had a feast for which they were duly thankful.

Dr. G. T. Cole, an importer and breeder of pure bred Jersey cattle, was here this week from Roundrock and bought a nine-month's old Jersey heifer calf from August Hornung for the sum of $100. The dam probably holds the best record in Texas for both the quantity of milk and the quantity of butter and if the calf developes into her equal Dr. Cole secured a bargain. Mr. Hornung snipped the calf Wednesday.

GIFTS FOR BOYS

Something for a boy seems often to be a puzzling question. Don't puzzle any more. Come and see what we have. Here are a few items that will please boys: Books, the standard gift; game boards; games, all the new ones; brushes; toilet articles; a medallion for his room; or a musical instrument is perhaps just what he wants. A purse, a pocket-book, or a camera is something every boy likes.

FOR THE MEN FOLKS

We have often been told by the ladies that "It is so hard to buy presents for men". We have demonstrated often that it is not hard at our store. Men like gifts combining usefulness with convenience. They want them to be good in quality. We have a large assortment of articles that will touch a man's heart. Among them are Shaving sets, military brushes, traveling sets, hat brushes, collar boxes, cuff boxes, pocketbooks, fountain pens, a picture for the room, a shaving mirror, one of the late books, a year's subscription to some magazine, ink stands, clothes brushes, cigars if he smokes, a Bible if he will use it, Christmas cards, etc.

FOR THE GIRLS

There should be no trouble in the selection of gifts for this class, especially when you come to this store. Here are a few hints: Books-scores of them-especially for girls, pocket books, work boxes made solely for girls, fancy articles in celluloid, silver, etc., pictures that are certain to please, toilet articles, cameras - the gift that never misses the mark, games -all kinds at all prices, Bibles, perfumes -even very little girls like perfumes.

GIFTS FOR WOMEN

Those who are puzzled as to what to give a lady had better consult this list, make memoranda, and then come and see other things. We lack sufficient space to mention all the stock. WAS INSPIRED

And the Inspiration Saved Serena From a Drunken Mob of Ruffians.

By JOHANNA DUNCAN.

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure News-On account of a washout the train was two hours late, and Serena peered into the darkness with great uneasiness. She was to change cars at the next stop, and having missed connection would have to stay all night. This was what she had dreaded all the way to Texas where she was to take a position as governess.

She was inexpressibly forlorn when she was left standing on the platform don. We were just having some fun. with her entire estate in her little satchel, and her unassuming trunk on end beside her.

called to another. "The place has just burnt up.

The air was full of smoke, so full, she felt the tears coming to her willing eyes as she shuddered with fright when several very grimy citizens openly regarded her.

The station agent bustling about with his lantern came woward her after a few moments, inquiring as to whether she expected anyone to meet her. He was a straight young person with a pair of fine eyes, but his face was terribly dark and his whole appearance indescribably awry.

"No, I am to take the Modena train. but the conductor says I have missed connections."

"Yes, the last one has pulled out until three in the morning.

"Will you be kind enough to take me to the hotel?" the girl asked, regarding there it is." dubiously his smutty visage.

"Why, there is no hotel," he replied; burned to the ground. "Isn't there a boarding house any-take you to, but come inside to the fire and we will think it over.'

"Jack Randal, you are in luck for once," he said to himself as he seized the long poker and stirred the fire in the tall stove, the light from the glowing coals making more radiant the beauty of his belated visitor.

"I have fought fire all day," he said cheerfully, "and I knew what to do, but this is a situation I am not able to cope with. There is no place near that consider safe enough to take you. The few men left are mostly drunk."

"Why not take me to your boarding place? Where are you going to stay?"

"I always sleep on a couch in the nner office. I have no night work, but this is better than uptown. I take my meals at the hotel. There were only a few houses here, and they are wiped out. We sent the women and children o Modena on the train you missed, and the men are making the best, or rather the worst, of it."

At that moment some shrill and parse shieks were heard approaching, and Serena came around to the agent's side of the stove.

"Do you think they are killing each other?

"No danger of that," he laughed. "It would not matter if they did." He disappeared for a few moments and reurned from the inner office with a clean face and his hair brushed. "If you will allow me," Serena requested neekly, "I will just sit here all night until the train comes, and I will try not to be in your way." "That would be very uncomfortable or you, and I could not think of it. The chief trouble is that some of the men will be here to sleep in this place.

"I'm afraid not, but we can act a part. You must be very ill or old or something-anything to keep them out, for they are a very rough set. Can't at poker?" you manage to masquerade? I will tell hem the passenger is ill, and has to occupy the waiting-room alone, then year?" will stay outside and mount guard." He brought in his couch, put a fresh case on the pillow and made the resting place as comfortable as possible,

"Indeed I cannot let you give me your couch," the girl stammered. "If ou will only-"

"There is nothing else to do. I must ake care of the Modena passengers as best I can. Don't be frightened. I will lock you in and take good care of

He put out the lamp as he spoke, closed the stove door, and in another noment was outside and had locked ier in.

Serena began to pray aloud in her right. The crowd was coming nearer with its rough song and coarse laughter. Now they were banging at the

"You got him tight, Jim? Well hold him till I get the key." More scuffing and bumping against the door. "We'll take a look at the lady anyhow. Come on boys. Turn the lantern around so we can see her."

It was fully ten minutes before the agent was sufficiently handicapped for them to effect an entrance, and then 10 or 20 dirty faces were thrust simultaneously through the doorway. What they say made them withdraw quietly. A small woman with her hair parted in the middle and screwed into a hickory nut at the back, was sitting by the couch cowering over a sleeping child which was covered with the agent's blanket. She had her hand on the baby's head caressing some straggling little curls escaping from beneath a blue veil, and when the men looked in she clung closer to the little form in a terror-stricken attitude.

"Beg your pardon lady, beg your par-We ain't going to disturb you and the kid. We'd rather sleep outside forever," and they shuffled out. After "Deuce to pay here," one brakeman more apologies they released their prisoner and took their hilarious way up the little deserted street.

> Serena sat in the same attitude too frightened to relax her muscles. After what seemed a long time the agent came in locking the door after him. His hair was on end, his clothing torn and there were several marks of violence and grime clinging to him, but his curiosity to know what she had done robbed him of any heroic assumption.

How dld you fix it?" he asked, regarding the fat infant upon his blanket. "How did you get that hair?"

"It was an inspiration," she whispered trembling with excitement and relief. "It is just your pillow. I tied a string around its neck, pinned the corners back, put my veil on it, took my reissors and cut a curl or two and

"You are an actress and an artist," he said admiringly, then returned to 'all the town except what you see, is his business manner. "I am going now to get some supper from the camp, -and will lock you up again."

"O, please don't leave me, I'm so The agent smiled. "Not that I could afraid," she begged, holding to his torn coat sleeve with a trembling little hand. Jack looked down at it, and then at the stove. He was beginning to enjoy thoroughly all the town calamities. He was glad it had burned, so glad the boys had torn his clothes, so glad of everything. But he insisted apon bringing her food, including a bucket of milk sent by the repentant ruffians for the child, and spent the rest of the night tramping the platform outside Sallors Not Aware of Error They Were Committing in Pouring Water on the Lime.

The crew of the British steamer Hartington, which is now discharging a huge cargo of coal for Uncle Sam at California City, had an exciting lesson in chemistry on arriving here from Norfolk. Shortly after dropping anchor of Meiggs wharf a launch came alongside. This launch brought out a quantity of provisions and other articles that had been ordered by the agent of the steamer some days before its arrival.

Some lime was needed for various purposes on the big freighter and one barrel of the white stuff was among the supplies taken out on the launch. The barrel was among the first cargo put on the steamer from the little boat alongside. There was quite a swell on at the time and through a little opening in the barrel as it reposed on deck the spray sprinkled the inclosed lime until the swollen contents loosened some of the joints of the barrel. When the sallors lowered the barrel into the forward hold the sizzling and smoking were really on. In alarm they rushed to the officer on deck and told him there must be a fire, as volumes of white smoke were curling their way up from the hold.

The officer, supposedly much wiser, was just as perturbed at the situation as his men and ordered a spraying from a hose on the line. The more water it received the more the lime smoked and the crew rushed about to get auxiliary fire apparatus. At just the height of the hurly-burly the chief engineer came on deck. He took in the situation at a Comrades in Ignorance.

Jasper couldn't tell time-neither could Sambo. One day Jasper was made a present of a fine silver watch, and there was a great thumping within his breast. He rigged the watch and chain up on his vest and started for the camp meeting. On the road on Dodson's Liver Tone. he met Sambo, whose eyes caught the glint of the new chain. "What you all got dere on de Can't Bet on Them.

In a lobby of a Washington botel the other night the conversation turned to the fads and foibles of the fair sex, when Congressman Milton W Shreve of Eric recalled an incident that happened in his home town

Some time since, so related the congressman, one of a certain party of men started a remark with the words, "I bet that 'she' will do anything! You can never tell what a woman will do!"

"Yes," protested the young man, but I was going to bet that she would do the unexpected."

"Don't do it!" was the quick response of the older man. "Even that is not a safe bet!"

Given No Chance.

"Can't I sell you a set of Dickens?" "I don't know what you can do if you get started, but I'm not going to let you try. Good day."

Every Article of Merit that is Sold These Days is Guaranteed No Guarantee Often Means Poor Quality.

There is very little excuse for any person to claim that he has been 'stung' on a purchase. Fifty years ago the buyer had to look out, but today it is unusual to find a merchant who will not return the money for any article that has proved unsatifactory. An excellent example of this kind of fair dealing is shown by the cleancut guarantee that W. H. Windrow gives
